

PATRICK BARRIOT (born 1955) is a doctor specialized in anæsthesia, reanimation and emergency toxicology. He served in the French Army with the rank of colonel and was Head Physician of the French Civil Defense. As an expert on nuclear, radiological, biological and chemical hazards, he is currently carrying out research on the risks related to emerging bio- and nanotechnologies. He is the main author of the important book Treating Victims Of Weapons Of Mass Destruction: Medical, Legal And Strategic Aspects (John Wiley and Sons).

DAVID SKRBINA is currently a Lecturer in Philosophy at the University of Michigan at Dearborn, where he created and teaches that university's first-ever course in Philosophy of Technology. He has also served as a guest Lecturer at Eastern Michigan University, and the University of Gent (Belgium). In addition to philosophy of technology, his research interests include philosophy of mind, metaphysics, and environmental ethics. Skrbina has published two books in philosophy, and has written numerous articles. Among his many current projects, he is preparing a collection of readings in technology criticism, for use as a college text.

THE ROAD TO REVOLUTION

THEODORE J. KACZYNSKI, aka The Unabomber, isn't just America's most infamous prisoner: he is a myth in his own right. Throughout the years he has become synonymous with mad scientist turned murder maniac. But there is much more to the Unabomber than the letter bombs and the 17-year FBI manhunt that ended in 1996 with his life imprisonment. This book contains the first and definitive authorized edition of Kaczynski's writings.

Long before his criminal endeavours, in the early 70s, Kaczynski began to develop a visionary set of theories that could be loosely branded as 'radical ecology'. The most famous of his writings, Industrial Society And Its Future, is published here in its only authorized version, along with many other texts, essays and letters. From his prison cell, Kaczynski sets on to demonstrate, with painstaking detail, that technology is leading humanity to its demise. The environmental catastrophe, in his views, is but a logical consequence of man's scientific self-enslavement.

Calling for a total and final end to all technological research and industries, Kaczynski takes the reader through a radically new way of thinking about the now trendy battle for the environment.
